Automate Your Workflows

Work Smarter, Not Harder

Challenges

Our customer was frustrated with their onboarding process. The customer had been managing this process with multiple emails and paper forms. A whopping 115 specific tasks needed to be completed for every new hire, from ordering company shirts to setting up payroll. All it took was one missing link - a person away on PTO or one forgotten email - and the process broke down.

- ✔ New hires arrived on their first day, and their accounts, email, IT equipment, and other critical components were not ready for them.
- ✔ Mismanaged onboarding created a poor first impression for the new employee, decreasing the retention rate.
- ✔ The “first day” became a major distraction for the company, since now other employees scrambled to complete last-minute tasks, frustration now bleeding over to many individuals.

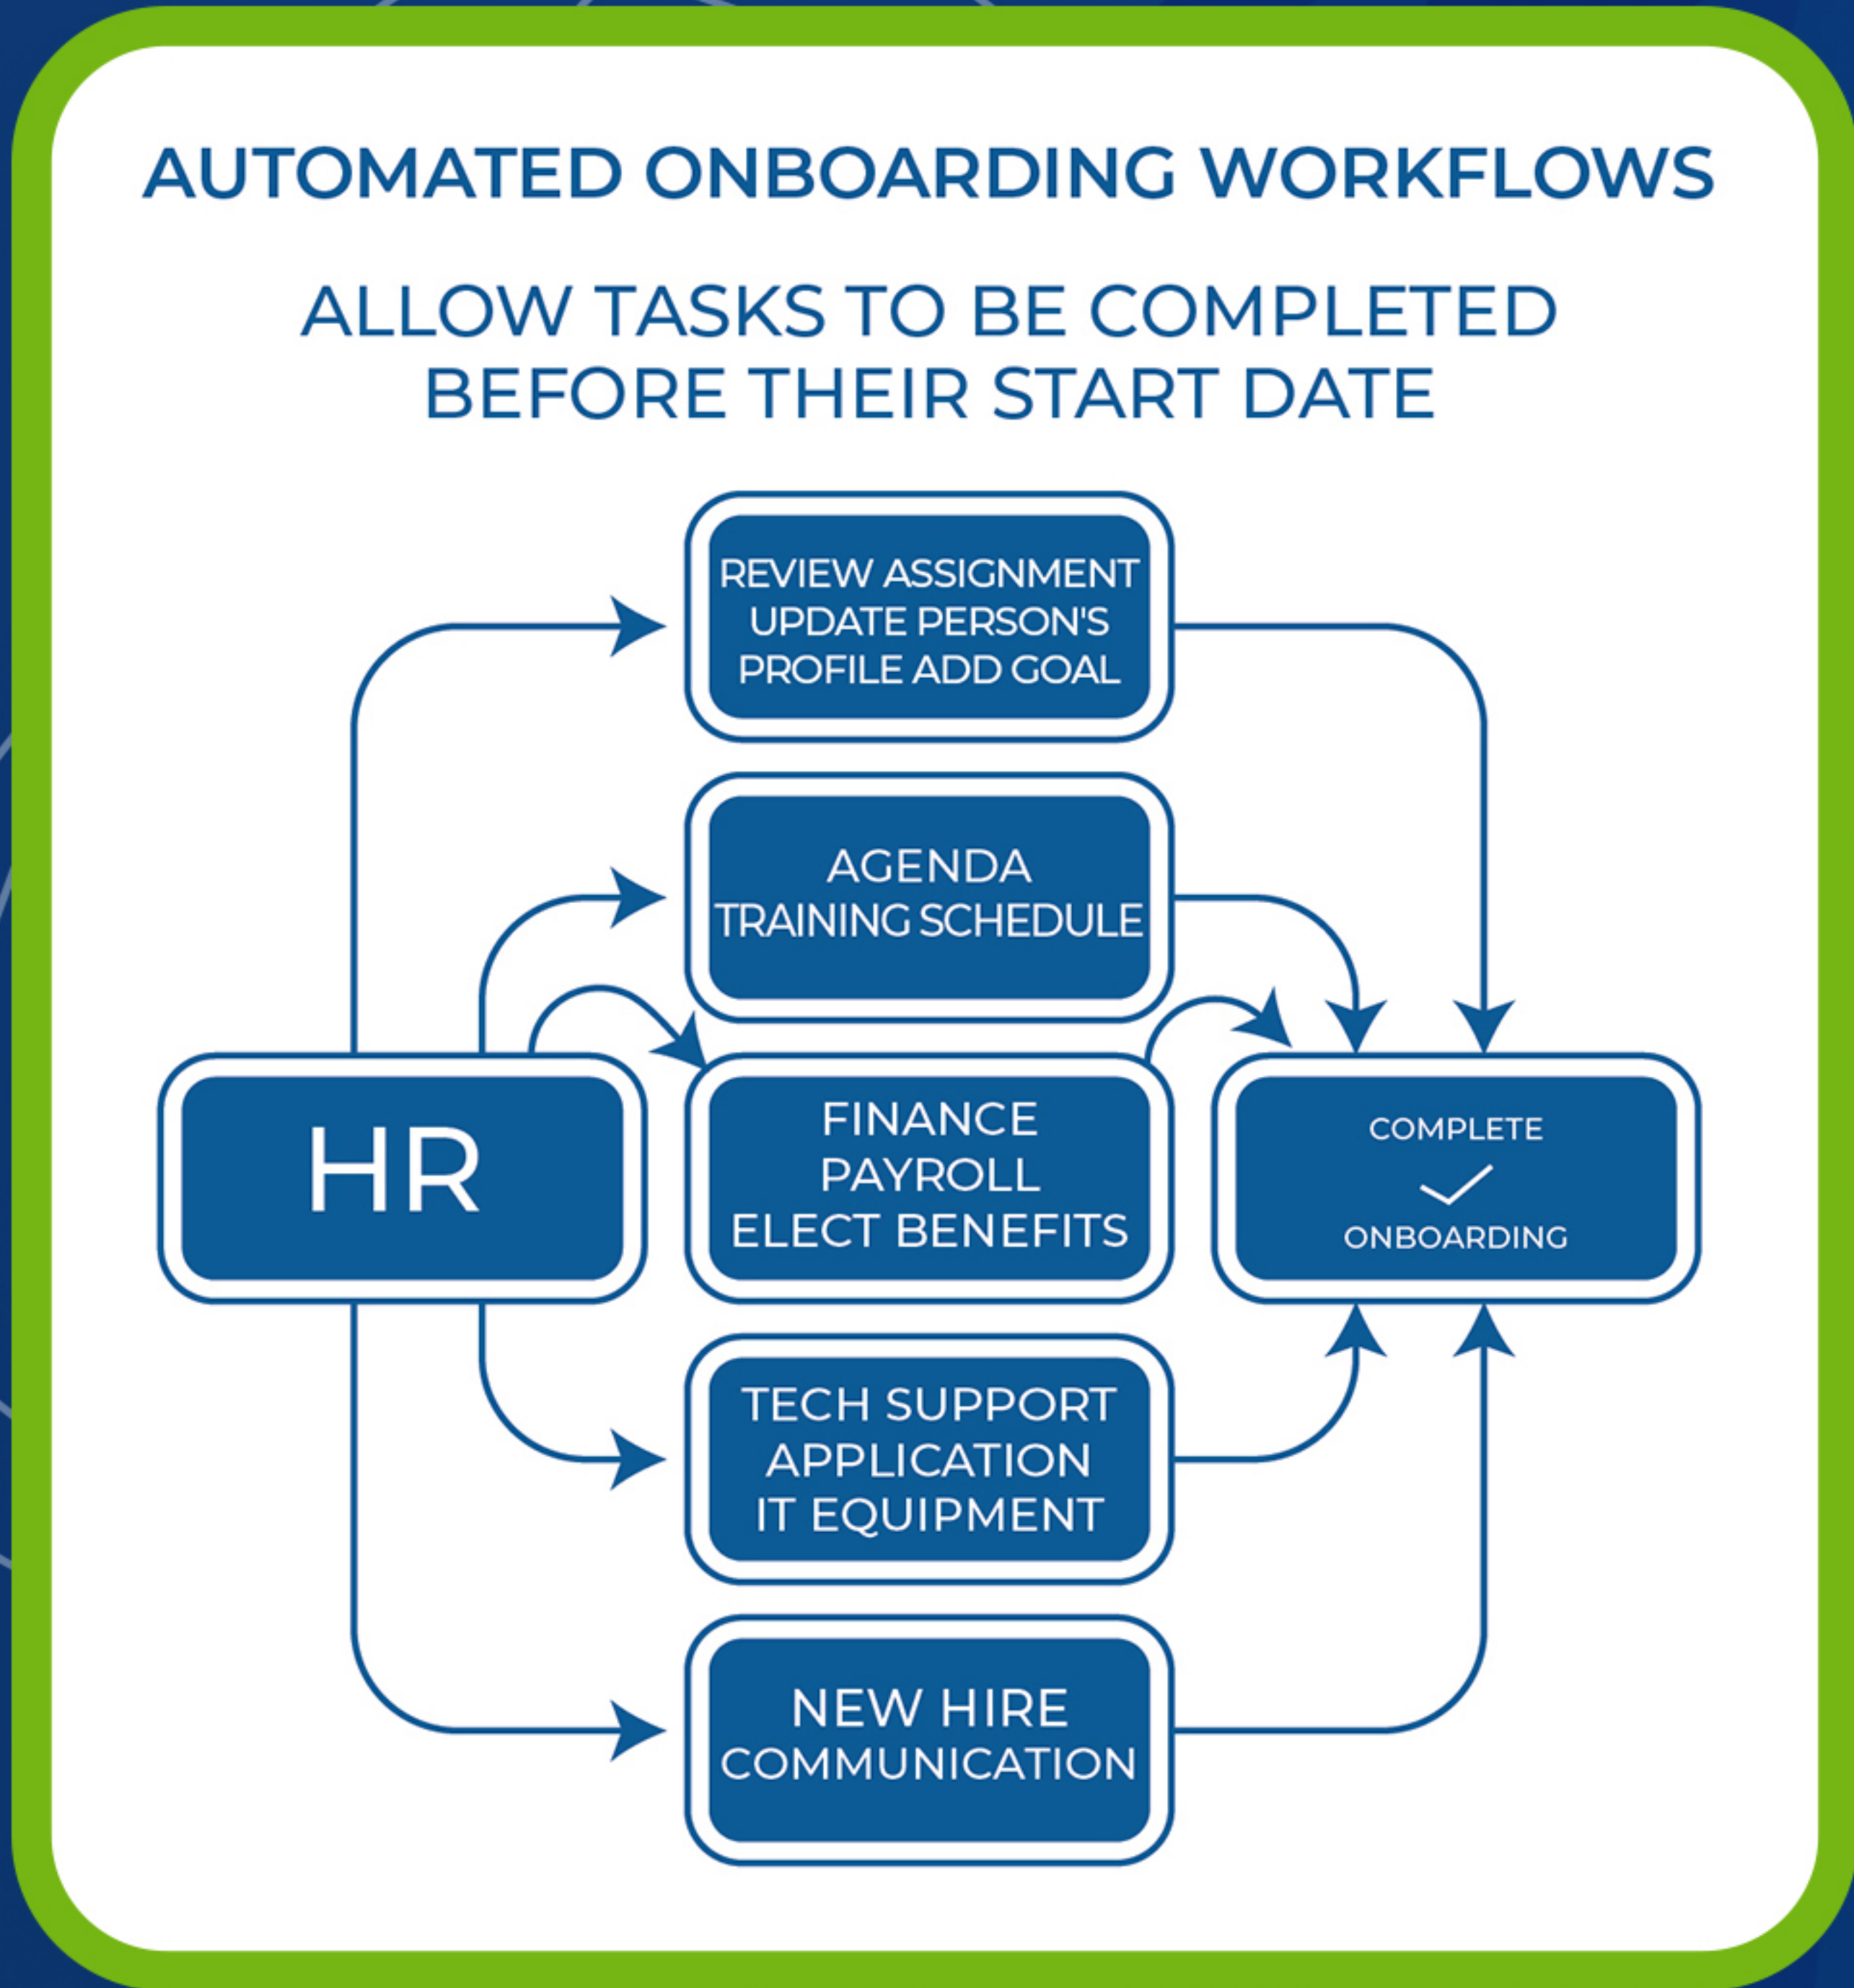

Solutions

ProStratus discussed the process with HR and department heads, determined who was responsible for which specific tasks, automated this onboarding process and provided vision on the workflow.

- ✔ Using a series of digital forms, service tickets, scripts, checklists, and software APIs, the manual process was automated and streamlined.
- ✔ The HR team can kick-off the process by completing one simple 2-minute digital form, immediately engaging everyone involved, down to procurement.
- ✔ All tasks are automated and assigned to individuals.

Results

When ProStratus automated the workflow, this reduced the onboarding process from 34 hours over 3 weeks to 12 hours over 4 days. The best part was no new software was required as the technology the customer already own was utilized. The first day for new employees is pleasant and productive, which makes everyone happy.
